

Manual Tester / Test Analyst

Greenliff is a small, dynamic and growing company specializing in software testing. We are currently seeking Manual Testers at our Zurich Technopark office.

Our Manual Testers work directly with customers to perform integration, system and acceptance tests – typically becoming domain experts in their respective application area. The ideal candidate will possess the necessary skills to write test specifications and test plans, set-up test environments, execute test cases, analyze results, and write test and bug reports.

Specifically, the ideal candidate will possess some or all of the following:

- an education in IT or similar
- experience in manual testing and test design
- at least 2 years working experience
- knowledge of test management and bug tracking tools
- fluency in English and German

We offer:

- challenging projects
- flexible work hours
- continuing education
- a dynamic, small team environment

Greenliff is an independent Engineering and Service company focused on software testing and quality control. Our services cover the entire test cycle from requirement analysis to implementation and test execution for a variety of customers within the financial, telecom, medical and industrial sectors.

If you possess these skills and have a valid Swiss work permit or are an EU citizen, you should talk to us. We look forward to receiving your application at jobs@greenliff.com.

We can only consider direct applications (no agencies).
